Wine Quality Prediction

JULY2024-NOV2024

Wine Quality Prediction is a machine learning problem that involves predicting the quality of wine based on its physicochemical properties. The dataset commonly used for this task is the Wine Quality Dataset from the UCI Machine Learning Repository, which contains information on red and white wine samples.

Campus Recruitment System

JAN2024-MAY 2024

A Campus Recruitment System is an online platform designed to streamline the hiring process for companies and educational institutions, helping employers recruit fresh talent directly from universities, colleges, or campuses. It connects students and graduates with recruiters for internships, full-time positions, or other career opportunities
